PROFILE

I am a Cyber Security and IT graduate from Alpha University dedicated to building resilient digital infrastructures and providing high-level technical support. I specialize in system troubleshooting, network security protocols, and hardware diagnostics to maintain operational efficiency and data integrity across diverse environments. My technical foundation encompasses computer science principles and practical problem-solving for complex hardware and software systems. I am now seeking an entry-level IT or cybersecurity role where I can apply my rigorous training to protect organizational assets and optimize system performance within a global framework.
